In a groundbreaking partnership, SOCATT (K) has joined forces with the Institute for Public Finance Global (IPF) to pioneer the establishment of the County Assembly Budget Office, mirroring the renowned Parliamentary Budget Office model. This innovative initiative is currently in its pilot phase and is set to transform budgetary processes within County Assemblies.

Makueni and Siaya Counties have been selected as the initial pilot sites for this transformative project. SOCATT (K) took the proactive step of engaging with the respective County Assembly Service Boards (CASBs) to secure their invaluable buy-in and support for the endeavor.

This collaborative effort between SOCATT (K) and IPF promises to redefine budgetary practices at the County Assembly level, bringing them in line with best practices observed at the national level. The pilot project's success in Makueni and Siaya Counties could pave the way for broader implementation across County Assemblies, ultimately enhancing fiscal responsibility and transparency in local governance.
